SOCIOLOGY OF WORK

Course Objective:

The course introduces the idea that though work and production have been integral to societies through time, the origin and spread of industrialization made a distinct rupture to that link. This rupture can also be seen mirrored in the coming of sociology as a discipline that considered work as central to the study of society. Based on this premise the paper goes on to provide an outline as to how values and ideals of pluralized industrialism(s) have caused an absorbed multiple transformative shifts to the local and global social networks of the contemporary world.

Course Objective:

Traditions in Indian sociology can be traced with the formal teaching of sociology as a subject in Bombay university way back in 1914. While the existence of a “Sociology in India” and “Sociology of India” have been largely debated in terms of whether it has been influenced by western philosophy, is there a need of indigenization etc., sociologists in India have primarily been engaged with issues of tradition and modernity, caste, tribe and gender. This paper primarily provides perspectives of key Indian sociologists on some of these issues.

Reading, Writing and Reasoning for Sociology

Class duration: 1 class=1 hour

Course Objective:

Reading and writing academic prose is not the same as the performance of these activities in ordinary language, yet these are the skills that are never taught, except perhaps in tutorial systems (where they exist). Unlike most language courses that lean towards literature or functional skills, this is a crash course in survival techniques for developing literacy in academic language. It consists of a graded series of reading and writing exercises using 'real' texts from the social sciences that will enable students to tackle text-related tasks with confidence. There is a conscious attempt to generate synergies by mirroring the reading and writing exercises.

Through this course, students should learn how to recognize good or bad writing and should be equipped with the elementary techniques for 'repairing' bad or damaged prose. The course will be preceded by a workshop for teachers. Short extracts for class exercises will be culled from classic and contemporary social science texts of varying levels of difficulty and of different genres and styles. The actual set of texts will be decided at the preparatory workshop. Examples could include:

Keynes, John Maynard (1936) The general theory of employment, interest and money, Palgrave Macmillan, United Kingdom

Parsons, Talcott (1951): The social system, Glencoe III, Free Press

Douglas, Mary (1986) How institutions think, Syracuse University Press, Syracuse, New York. Romila Thapar (2004) Somanatha: The many voices of history, Penguin Books, India

Sunil Khilnani (1997) The idea of India, Penguin Books.

Louis Dumont (1980) Homo Hierarchicus, University of Chicago Press.

Well-known guides to academic writing (such as Howard Becker's Writing for Social Scientists) will also be used where appropriate.

COURSE CONTENTS AND ITINERARY

1. Introduction: The virtues of repetition [Week 1]

Academic reading and writing is really all about re-reading and rewriting – about repeatedly re-working a text until some provisional goal is achieved.

Assignment, Day 1: Read a short (1-2 page) academic text of moderate difficulty and summarize it in one paragraph (3-4 sentences). (This is without prior guidance by the instructor).

Assignment, Day 2: Re-read the same text and re-write the summary after a brief discussion of CONTENT (does the summary contain most of the most important points made in the text?)

Assignment, Day 3: Re-read the same text and re-write the summary again after a brief discussion of FORM (is the summary well structured, clear and effective?)

2. Techniques for reading academic texts [Weeks 2–7]

Grasping the whole: How to get an overview

- Titles as the shortest summary of a text
- Good and bad titles
- Section headings (where present)
- Introductions and Conclusions
- Identifying important passages and sentences

Divide and conquer: Taking texts apart

- Beginning, middle and conclusion – stages of argument
- 2.2.2 The architecture of arguments: main, subsidiary, minor
- Everything is not equally important: Distribution of emphasis

Getting outside help: Recruiting extra resources

Isolating words & terms: Dictionaries, Encyclopedias
Contextualising texts with quick background research
Productive ways of asking for help from teachers/tutors

Techniques for writing academic prose [Weeks 8–13]

Building a structure: What do you want to say?

Beginning, middle and conclusion – stages of argument
The architecture of arguments: main, subsidiary, minor
Everything is not equally important: Distribution of emphasis

Working with blocks: Sections, Paragraphs, Sentences

How many sections? Job descriptions for each section

3.2.2 Paragraphs as key building blocks of academic prose

Sentences and punctuation; length, balance, continuity

Borrowing material: Paraphrasing, Quoting, Citing

The difference between paraphrasing and plagiarism

Quotations: When? Why? How?

3.3.3 Citation styles

Productive ways of asking for help from teachers/tutors

Final sessions: peer reviewing [Week 14]

The ability to judge and evaluate is a crucial skill, particularly when applied to oneself. Students will practice evaluating each other's work throughout the semester, but the last week can be formalized and stepped up into a more elaborate exercise.

Assignment, Day 1: The whole class does an individualized, two-part composite reading and writing exercise designed by the instructor based on semester long experience of student abilities and interests.

Assignment, Day 2: The reading part of the individual assignment is randomly distributed for students to evaluate and comment on their colleagues' work. The instructor moderates discussion of strengths and weaknesses, highlighting techniques for recognizing quality (or its lack).

4.3 Assignment, Day 3: The writing part of the assignment is similarly distributed and evaluated through interactive, moderated discussion.

Note:

Through this course, students should learn how to recognize good or bad writing and should be equipped with the elementary techniques for 'repairing' bad or damaged prose. The course will be preceded by a workshop for teachers. ETHNOGRAPHIC FILMMAKING

Objectives: This course focuses on doing sociology and social anthropology through forms other than the written; , in particular, the oral, aural, and the visual.. It introduces students to film techniques as a form and method of description and argument and enables a comparison between film and the written mode as ethnography. One concern that may be pursued is how the visually challenged encounter, experience and represent the field. The course will be conducted through group work enabling a learning process between the visually challenged and the non-visually challenged.

Outline:

Introduction to Anthropological Filmmaking

Anthropology and Filmmaking: The Text and the Image
Different Modes of Filmmaking

Understanding the use of Camera in Anthropology

The Filmmaker and the Filmed: Relationship and understanding ‘ethics’

Editing and Construction of Meaning

Understanding multiple shots and camera movement
Tools for Film Editing

Filming Oral testimonies, Interviews and Interactions

Final Film Projects
